Deluge floods Bay St. Louis

12 inches of heavy rain fell Monday

BY ED LEPOMA

Civil Defense, law enforcement and rescue personnel got good training for the coming hurricane season Monday when a persistent and intense thunderstorm dumped at least 12 inches of rain in Bay St. Louis.

Waveland and unincorporated parts of Hancock County escaped with less rainfall, but several streets were temporarily flooded throughout the area, and standing water on the roads caused several accidents and temporarily slowed motorists on busy Hwys. 90 and 603.

Throughout the area, motorists stalled or ran vehicles into ditches rising with water when they were unable to distinguish where the road ended and the drainage ditches began.

The storm was preceded by rolling thunder and lightning that knocked out power and phone service in several areas. Some of the heavy rains occurred as most school buses were boarding children for the ride home.

McPhail critical after accident

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Diamondhead resident Evelyn McPhail remains in the intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital of Hattiesburg in critical but stable condition with head injuries, according to a hospital report issued Wednesday afternoon.

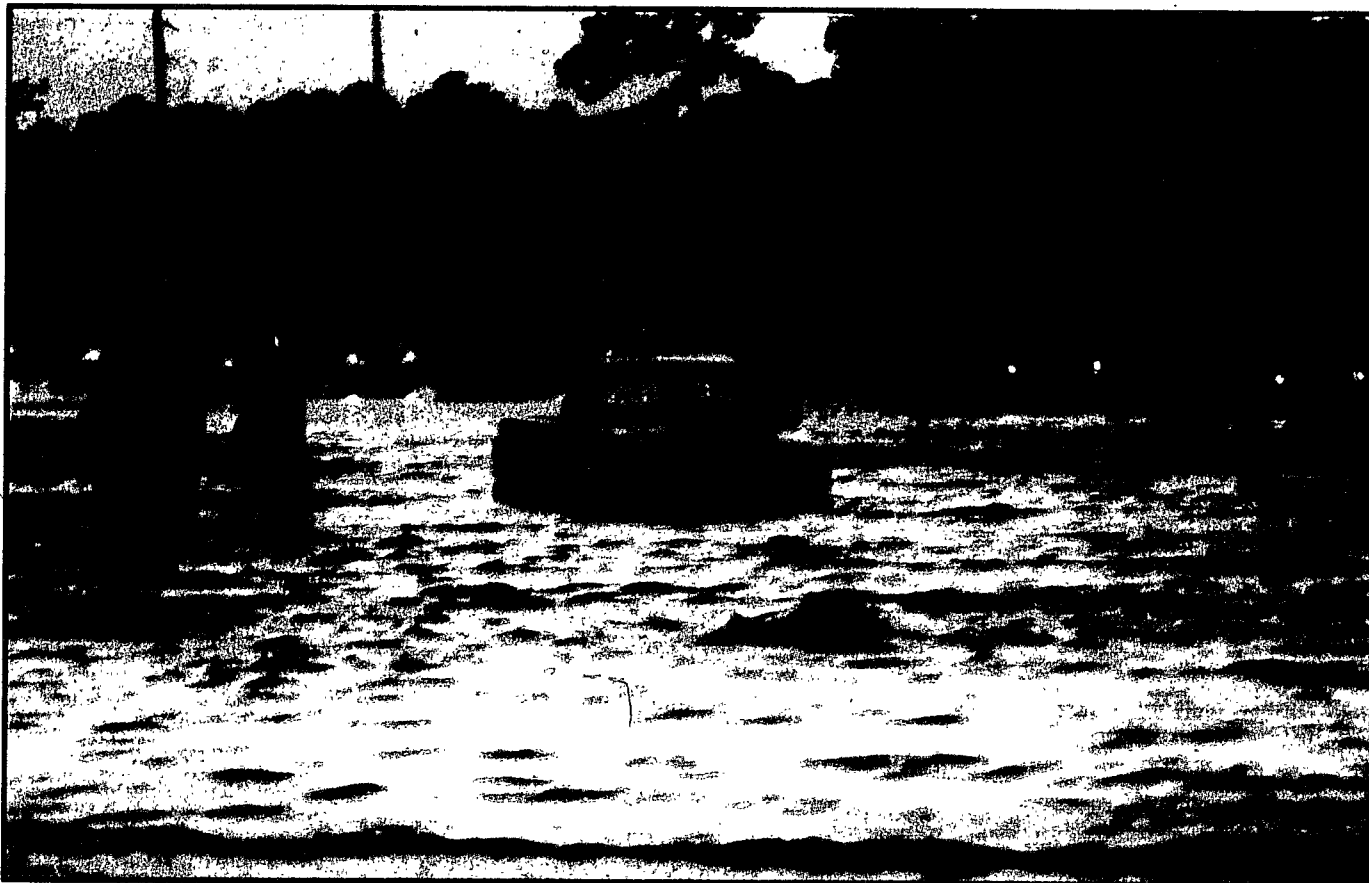

McPhail, 66, the former co-chair of the Republican National Committee, was injured in a one-car accident on Interstate 59 in Jasper County near Laurel Monday evening.

She was transferred from South Central Regional Medical Center in Laurel to Methodist Hospital at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Through the hospital her family issued the following statement: "Mrs. McPhail remains in intensive care. She's holding her own. Her injuries are serious, but she is stable and under observation. Doctors tell us we'll have to wait and see how she reacts today. Tests showed no change in her condition through the night."

School district land requested for rubbish

See related story, page 3A

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County supervisors have been asked to reapproach the Hancock County School District to see whether it might sell the county additional land at the Standard rubbish site.

The consensus was reached Monday in a special meeting of the Solid Waste District called to discuss ways to stave off the June 30 closure or downgrading of Standard.

Bill Johnson of Compton Engineering has been hired by supervisors as an independent consultant to come up with a plan to extend the life of the rubbish site, along with finding a site in the buffer zone around Stennis for a county-owned landfill.

He made a presentation to supervisors a week ago and recommended that Standard be downgraded to a Class II site, which would limit what could be dumped there. Residents would still be able to dump even Class I rubbish, but it would have to be sorted, stored in a temporary holding bin, then transported to a nearby landfill that accepts the items that Standard could no longer bury.

Johnson told members of the Solid Waste District the downgrading of Standard might extend the rubbish site's life for another year, "But, the longterm needs (for a rubbish site) still has to be addressed."

That's when District Chairman Les Fillingame, who represents Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre, suggested reopening talks with the school district.

The district currently leases 41 acres of 16th Section land to the county for the rubbish site, but it is nearing capacity. Last year, the school district refused to sell the remaining 94 adjoining acres to the county. Fillingame said he thought

Thoughts for meditation:
 Our Lord, going before us this hard way, showed us how we should walk.

I have set you an example that you should do as I have done for you.

There is nothing, nothing we can do to make God love us more.

Leftwich named Hancock administrator

Dr. W. Leftwich is Hancock Medical Center's new administrator, according to the Rev. Charles E. Johnson, pastor of St. Ann-St. John Catholic Church in New Orleans.

Leftwich, who was named administrator of Hancock Medical Center in January, has managed hospitals across the United States during the past seven years as a General Resources Inc. administrator. His assignments ranged from a few months to three years, while he maintained a permanent residence in New Orleans.

Leftwich has a master's degree in business administration from Xavier University in Cincinnati, Ohio. He is pursuing a doctorate in business administration, and is board certified in health care management as a Fellow in the American College of Healthcare Executives.

Prior to working for Quorum, Leftwich was vice president of administration at Parrish Medical Center in Titusville, Fla.; vice president of medical services at Kissimmee Memorial Hospital in Kissimmee, Fla.; and assistant administrator at Greenville General Hospital in Greenville, S.C.

"It is very exciting to be part of a facility and an area that is experiencing rapid growth," said Leftwich. "The board of trustees, physicians and employees at Hancock Medical Center have seen first hand the challenges and opportunities that this growth presents. We are fortunate to have dedicated leaders in place to guide the medical center into the future."

'Buckle Up' safety campaign begun

The Bay St. Louis Police Department, the Waveland Police Department and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department are joining with law enforcement agencies across the county to send a message to the public that "unbuckled children are unacceptable."

In conjunction with Buckle Up America Week, the Air Bag Safety Campaign and the Bay St. Louis Police Department, the Waveland Police Department and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department officials have planned a host of activities under the banner of "Operation ABC: Mobilizing America to Buckle Up Children."

"Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death among children, and unbuckled or improperly restrained children are at twice the risk from death and injury in the event of a crash. The added risk that air bags may pose to children adds urgency to this message," said Sheriff Ronnie Peterson. "This means we must step up enforcement of our child passenger safety laws to make certain children buckle up."

Law enforcement officers will be conducting high-visibility enforcement drives of child passenger safety laws during Operation ABC. Police officers are planning child safety seat checks and adult seat belt checks at youth activities throughout Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County.

Air Bag Safety Campaign research shows that 9 out of 10 Americans know that air bags pose risks to children, yet 40 percent are still not taking the steps necessary to protect children by buckling them in the back seat. Law enforcement officials will help educate the public about the necessity of using child safety seats by promoting their lifesaving capabilities.

"While education is important, it alone is not enough to assure that all drivers properly restrain children," said Janet Dewey, executive director of the Air Bag Safety Campaign. "Stepped up enforcement, enactment of stronger laws, as well as closing the gaps in existing laws, must be the next steps."

Experience has shown that tougher enforcement of safety belt and child passenger safety laws and the enactment of stronger laws increase safety seat and safety belt usage rates. Operation ABC: Mobilizing Americans to Buckle Up Children comes at a time when President Clinton, the National Governors' Association and the U.S. Conference of Mayors have all recently expressed strong support for law enforcement in their efforts to increase compliance with child passenger safety laws.

"We want to help parents make the correct decision," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre. "We will be working with parents to ensure that children are protected."

Bay St. Louis officers will be educating parents, providing incentives for parents to use child restraints and enforcing seat belt and child restraint laws in Bay St. Louis.

Only 60 percent of children, nationwide, are restrained in safety belts or child safety seats, however experts estimate that of the children who are placed in child safety seats, 80 percent are not correctly buckled in. In addition, for children under the age of five that are killed in crashes, 60 percent are unrestrained.

"We are working with the community to save lives," said Mayor John Mason of Waveland. "Waveland Police officers will be out in force during the week of May 19 to educate Waveland residents about using child restraints."

Motor vehicle crashes — in vehicles with or without air bags — are the leading cause of death of children ages 5-14.

The best way to protect children from the risks that air bags may pose, as well as from other crash-related injuries, is to properly restrain them in the back seat.

Trio charged in theft

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Three Hancock County residents were arrested this week in connection with a Lower Bay Road car theft.

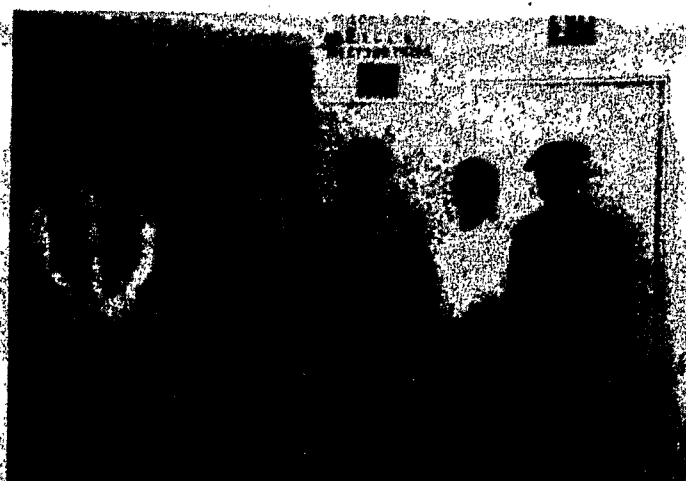

Hancock County sheriff's investigator Lt. George Burleson said, "Timothy J. Cunningham, 20, No. 24 Aloha Trailer Park, Waveland; Timothy M. Meyers, 20, 8123 Avacado St., Springwood Park; and William J. Trosclair Jr., 21, 6144 Kemper St., BaySide Park, were arrested in connection with the car theft which occurred about April 9."

In addition Cunningham and Meyers are charged with the burglary of a Highway 43 residence involving fishing equipment, weed eater and power generator, Burleson added.

Bond was set at $15,000 each for Cunningham and Meyers, with bond for Trosclair at $5,000, Burleson said.

"The fishing equipment, weed eater and power generator were hidden in the woods and recovered," Burleson said.

Assisting in the investigation was Investigator Corky Hoda.

Boudin's Waste sale imminent

BY ED LEPOMA

The sale of locally-owned Boudin's Waste and Recycling Inc., appears imminent.

The firm, wholly owned by Joey Boudin, the son of the county's Civil Defense Director, has the contract to pick up household garbage in Bay St. Louis and Waveland and throughout unincorporated areas of Hancock County. He also has extended service into Picayune and Poplarville and parts of St. Tammany Parish.

Boudin confirmed to the Echo that he was in negotiations, mainly with Trans-American Waste Inc., whose Mississippi team currently manages and operates the county rubbish site at Standard. But, he added, "Waste Management is interested, too."

The first hint that a sale to Trans-American was being discussed came in a letter sent May 12 to the Hancock Solid Waste District.

In that letter, David Green, senior vice president for corporate development at Trans-American and the firm's general counsel, dealt mainly with proposals being considered to extend the life of the rubbish site at Standard.

But, near the end of the letter, Green said, "As you may be aware, Trans-American has entered into an agreement to purchase the stock of Boudin's Waste and Recycling, Inc. We believe there would also be some additional efficiencies resulting from the joint ownership and operation of the solid collection system, the rubbish site and transfer stations."

Green was in Trans-American's Houston office, and did not return repeated phone calls, but Boudin said his "letter of intent" to sell to Trans-American expired on May 15 without the two parties coming to terms.

He said negotiations would continue, but as the sole stockholder of his firm, he would want to remain in some kind of managerial capacity in the event he sells to anyone.

"I wouldn't exactly say I was selling out. I see it as a possible merger," said Boudin. He said he wants to remain the majority stockholder under any agreement that may be reached.

Boudin's father began the garbage pickup business, then turned it over to his son.

He was first awarded the contract to pick up garbage in Waveland and Bay St. Louis in 1994, and his bid was substantially lower than two other giant haulers operating in the area, Browing Ferris and Waste Management. Boudin also provides dumpsters and picks up garbage for several businesses in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Later, the Solid Waste District contracted with him to extend weekly garbage pickup to the unincorporated areas of Hancock County.

Last January, the Solid Waste District extended Boudin's contract for another four years, and its value is placed in excess of $1 million annually.

In the meantime, Boudin has added to his fleet and hired additional employees.

In September of 1995, Boudin raised the ire of neighbors in the Bayou Phillips Community when he began clearing 10 acres of land off Harbor Drive, and announced he would build a new maintenance facility.

Residents went to supervisors to ask them to halt Boudin's plans, but learned that there was no zoning ordinance on the books that would prohibit Boudin from building.

To my supporters, family, friends and the many wonderful people that I met during my campaign ... THANK YOU! Your help, support and friendship will always be remembered.

That the water, wind, and hail was coming in Bay St. Louis on Monday.

It was the most rain I have ever recall in the area within such a short period of time. Officially we had over 12 inches of rain within an eight-hour period.

The rain was not the only problem. As the wind came down, it was a combination of the wind, the rain, and the hail that put out of commission.

Several transmission lines were down, and power companies were very busy returning power services to residential and commercial customers.

Law enforcement agencies were busy, along with both city crews and county workers setting up barricades on flooded streets.

There were so many flooded streets in Bay St. Louis that city vehicles had to be used in some areas, as they ran out of barricades.

One must remember this, Bay St. Louis has a large number of barricades, which city workers constructed, and they are kept on hand for our many parades and special events.

It was interesting to hear about many motorists who ignored police directions and continued on flooded streets.

I have heard there were several motorists who found out the hard way that police was trying to keep them off the roads because of the depth of the water. Several had to call a wrecker service to retrieve their vehicles.

Complaints, too, were about motorists who traveled too fast through water and caused waves to go into some homes and businesses, which caused wave action sending the water inside some homes and places. I wonder how they would feel if water was an inch or so from moving into their homes and a vehicle passed in front of their homes or businesses and sent the water in by wave action.

Reports went as high as 100 businesses and homes in the area had water damage on Monday night, with the majority being in Bay St. Louis.

On my way to work Tuesday morning about 7 a.m., the first person I saw was Chevis Sweetman, president of Peoples Bank at the corner of my street directing efforts to have the facility ready for the 9 a.m. opening.

Chevis said this was the first time the building had water in it in 30 years.

I am no expert on drainage, but it appears one of the problems may be the fact that there are not large enough culverts under Highway 60.

Case in point, the water holdup between Ulman Avenue and DeMontluzin, and also in the vicinity of Redditt Pest Control, it appears that water could not get under the highway fast enough.

I have seen flooding between Ulman Avenue and DeMontluzin several times before, but never like it was on Monday.

Cindy Vernon and the chamber crew kept their fingers crossed that water would not enter the office, and it was only inches away.

Wrecker services had a "field day" as the saying goes. They were very busy Monday throughout the night and continued on Tuesday hauling in flooded vehicles.

On Wednesday morning I talked to Civil Defense director Bobby Boudin. He said as of that morning he had officially 60 homes and 12 businesses reported to his office with water damage.

Boudin, a native of Bay St. Louis, said the rain storm was a least a once in a 500-year period event.

The CD director said no drainage drainage system could handle that much water in such a short period, with the exception of possibly the Stennis Test Site, and it has 20-foot wide ditches throughout.

In all the reports I have received, there was a great cooperation between all agencies involved during the afternoon of crisis. Law officers, city and county crews, emergency personnel, power company crews and everyone else who may have helped during the crisis needs to be commended for a job well done.

When the chips are down, everyone really pulls the "wagon" together, and I guess that is one of the reasons we have such a great place to call home.

Lott: Keesler remains as TRICARE test site

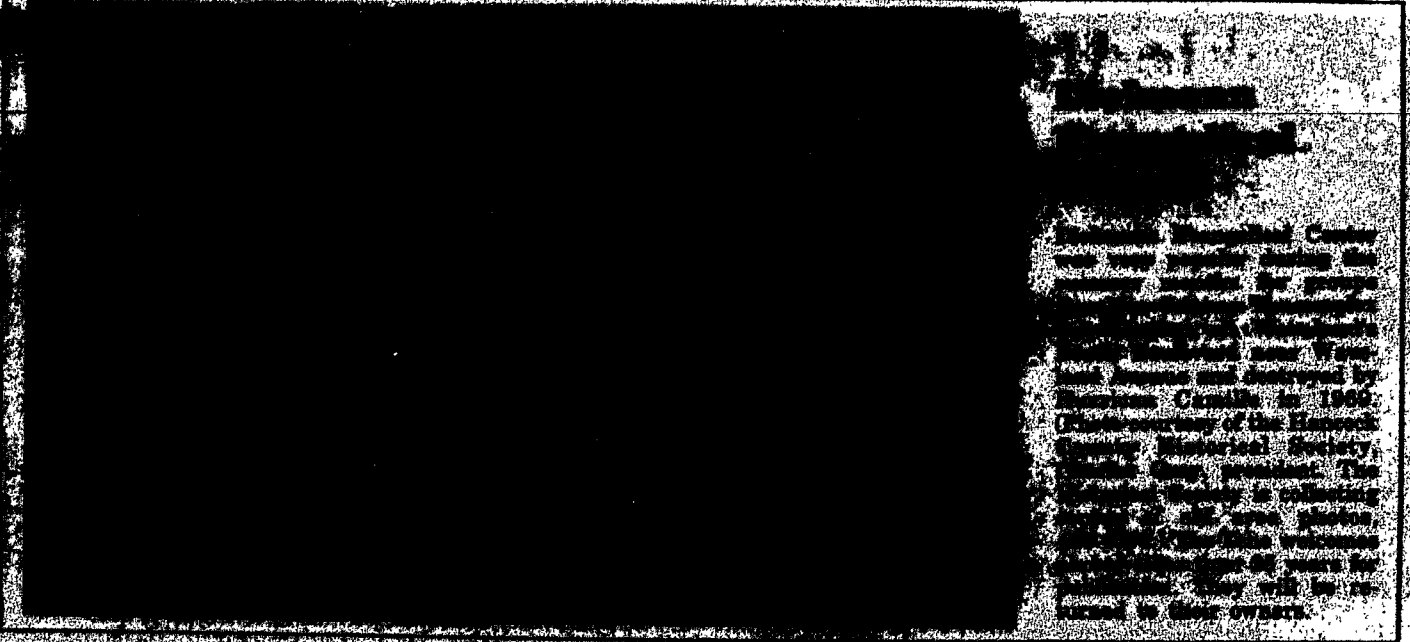

Keesler Medical Center remains as one of the military bases chosen by the Department of Defense (DoD) and the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) as a test site for the TRICARE Senior Project, U.S. Senator Trent Lott announced.

"Contrary to some rumors and reports, Keesler will be a test site for the military's TRICARE Senior Project," Lott said. "I have confirmed with Bruce Vladek, administrator of HCFA, and Dr. Ed Martin, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs, that Keesler will be a part of this simulation project. Mr. Vladek and Dr. Martin both conveyed DoD and HCFA's excitement in having Keesler participate in this program, and I share in their enthusiasm."

TRICARE Senior Project will allow the Department of Defense to simulate enrolling a controlled number of Medicare-eligible military retirees into a managed care program and offer them similar care as active-duty recipients. DoD would receive reimbursement from HCFA for the services provided.

"The goal of this simulation is to validate the savings associated with medicare subvention so we can enact a demonstration program beginning in 1999. By having Keesler participate in the simulation, they will have an inside track into participating in the demonstration program," Lott said.

"Through this test program, Keesler will take part in helping to restore the government's promises to our military retirees."

IN CONGRESS By Representative Gene Taylor

Taylor committed to health care for all military retirees

South Mississippi Congressman Gene Taylor announced that Medicare Subvention "remains one of his highest priorities" in Congress to ensure that our nation keeps its promise of a lifetime of healthcare to those who have military service as a career.

The DoD and HHS have agreed upon a plan to test Medicare Subvention in six military medical facilities around the country. Although I am pleased that Keesler AFB Medical Center has been reinstated as one of the sites where the demonstration project will be tested, I am not satisfied that the test will be extended to all military retirees and their spouses who need medical services. I have written the Secretary of Defense to ask that the test program be extended to include all military retirees and their spouses who have been denied Medicare benefits for said.

Medicare subvention would be below the land today, had the project not been killed when Rep. Taylor offered an amendment to the Fiscal Year 1997 Appropriations Bill for the Department of Labor Health and Human Services and Education July 10, 1996. The amendment would have provided Medicare Subvention for our military retirees and their spouses above the age of 65.

Taylor's amendment was based on H.R. 580, which was introduced by Congressman Joel Hefley (R-CO) in the 104th Congress. In spite of the fact that H.R. 580 had 257 bipartisan cosponsors, the Republican Leadership has refused to bring the bill legislation before the House for a vote.

The House National Security Committee, of which Taylor is a member, has voted in support of Medicare Subvention. The two other committees this bill was assigned to did not take action on H.R. 580. (H.R. 580 has now been introduced in the 105th Congress as H.R. 414.)

Taylor's amendment would have ensured that Medicare Subvention was in place nationwide. However, on July 10, 1996, House Majority Leader Dick Armey and Majority Whip Tom DeLay walked the floor and had members who were originally cosponsors of the bill change their vote. According to the Roll Call vote, 11 original cosponsors changed their vote after pressure from the Republican Leadership, who actively worked to prevent Medicare Subvention from being voted on.

"I pledge to continue to fight for Medicare Subvention so that no one is left out," said Taylor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Commission's planned trapping means loss of life for hogs

Dear Editor:
My husband and I moved eight months ago from Anley just one mile from Port Bienville where we owned and lived in the middle of 65 acres of virgin land and woods.

During that time only on few occasions did we ever see any wild hogs. When we did see them we would try and coax them with corn to come closer to us, but needless to say, they would run away as expected, due to their wild nature.

So the story published in the Echo May 18 was greatly exaggerated.

True enough, if the hogs are being cornered in a small area then, yes, they will charge someone only in their defense.

The exaggerated number of wild hogs in the port is nothing more than a few mamas and their young.

The hogs use Port Bienville as a refuge, because the vast majority of land surrounding the port is leased to hunting clubs who frequently hunt with dogs.

So where else can they go for protection? But now the commissioners want the wild hogs killed.

The applications being handed out to the trappers state the hogs do not leave the Port alive.

The hogs homesteaded the Baldwin Plantation (which is now Port Bienville) and in which time provided many families with much needed meat. Now the industry is there, and all of a sudden the hogs are a big burden.

What are some solutions: Traps. Are not the answer. They have already been at the port for 10 years or better, and it hasn't solved the problem yet.

1. Traps require bait. Bait in itself will encourage more hogs in the surrounding areas to move into the port, also other unwanted wildlife. Plus even though the trappers' applications state you can use your corn, fish scraps or slop, the state Board of Health prohibits you to feed swine (hogs) slop, with the intention of human consumption. So the kill would be just that. They will be killed for nothing.

2. Not unless the traps would be monitored 24 hours around the clock, the hogs trapped could do without food or water for days at a time.

3. There would be no way to control 10 trappers without management.

Solution:
2. Contract experienced hog hunters.

2. Catch and move hogs to a new location.

3. Fence in Port Bienville. As a little girl I read stories about wild hogs, but I thought it was just that, a story. Not until I moved to Hancock County did I realize the stories had come true.

I've lived in Hancock County for 21 years, and one of the things that makes our county beautiful is the wildlife, such as the wild hogs, deer, bobcat, bear, etc.

Let's not be the county to make the wild hog an endangered species. Let's set an example and be the county that protects our wildlife.

The problem of the wild hogs in my opinion needs more serious consideration and thought by the Board of Supervisors and the Port and Harbor Commission.

Let's not make a hasty decision. June 2 is too soon to pick the 10 trappers.

Parents feel choir and show choir deserve recognition

Dear Editor:
We, the Parents of students in Bay High's choir and show choir are very upset.

Award Day we had a lot of upset students at Bay High.

The principal, Mrs. Reed, goes on and on acknowledging the Bay High band. Well, we don't think this is very fair to the students in choir and show choir.

They also went to competition against other states and received excellence. And on Award Day at Bay High no one in choir or show choir or even the teacher, Mrs. Cline, were acknowledged, and without Mrs. Cline and the students' hard work there wouldn't be a choir.

Mrs. Cline and students in choir and show choir should have been recognized for their excellence rating also.

This is very unfair on Mrs. Reed's part as principal of Bay High School.

This is discrimination! Should we have a principal like this that only cares for favorites, unfair to our students? Should we have a principal like this?

We don't feel Mrs. Reed has been fair at all, and we, the parents, need to make it known to the school board.

This isn't the first complaint I've heard. There are many more, and it looks like we, the parents, are going to have to be the ones to get something done.

No one in town was even aware of Bay High's show choir or chorus except the parents of students in it.

Well, we the parents want the Bay High choir and show choir and most of all Mrs. Cline to know we acknowledge your excellence rating in competition and Mrs. Cline's fine job of teaching our students in chorus and show choir.

Congratulations to Mrs. Cline and all students in choir and show choir. We are very proud of all of you.

Thank you,

Rubbish

board members refused to sell mainly because the site was permitted for a garbage landfill, and supervisors didn't want one at the Standard location either. He said, "Standard, by far, is our most legitimate option" for a rubbish site, which will solve the county's needs for several years. The additional acreage will resolve our long-term needs," he said.

Fillingame asked District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward if she could get supervisors to "reapportion the school board" about leasing or purchasing the additional property at Standard. "It is an established site. And, people are accustomed to dumping there," said Fillingame.

Johnson estimated about 75 acres could be used for rubbish, but the remainder would have to serve as a buffer.

The motion to renew talks with the School District passed unanimously, and Coward said she would advise fellow supervisors.

Johnson said with the June 30 deadline looming, time was of the essence since he has to inform the state Department of Environmental Quality on steps being taken to avert a shutdown of Standard. He said if supervisors agreed to reopen talks, perhaps the transaction could be agreed upon in a joint session between supervisors and the School District.

Ed Fox, president of Trans-American's Mississippi operations, was also present at the meeting, along with David Green, senior vice president and the firm's general counsel.

Trans-American offered to continue to manage and operate the rubbish site at Standard and was asked to work up with "land costs" for operating and building a transfer station in the event the School District renege the latest offer, and the county is forced to downgrade Standard, construct a temporary transfer station and contract to have some rubbish transferred out of Standard.

Boudin Waste and Recycling will also be asked what additional costs might be incurred should his firm have to transport some rubbish from Standard to either the Pecan Grove landfill in Hancock County or to Trans-American's landfill in Mexico, which is in Pearl River County.

Contacted Tuesday afternoon, School Super Terry Randolph said he didn't know if the District could sell the land outright to the county, but added, "they might consider a lease only if it were for rubbish."

A sticking point might be who would accept liability for what is dumped at Standard. As it stands now, the School District is liable since it leases the land to the county, and during past talks, several school board members expressed concerns about the liability.

Local man hits jackpot

Grand Grand Casino Gulfport was the place to be for Chris Covey Monday night, May 5. At approximately 8:40 p.m., with 75 cents left out of the $20 he came with, Covey moved to another machine, placed his last three quarters in the "Grand Quarters" machine and went home with $371,498. Covey is just one more guest added to the winners list at Grand Casino Gulfport where "Players Know Best."

Originally from Texas, Covey, 27, moved to the Coast four years ago because he loved the beaches. He's been a regular guest at Grand Casino Gulfport for two years and comes there because of the "very friendly employees." Said Covey, "When I hit the jackpot, the employees were happy and crying for me. Grand Casino is where it's at."

After his win, Covey took a quick trip to visit family in Texas and bought his dream car, a rodeo red Mustang convertible.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

For a few brief moments last weekend, it was as if autumn had never left. One could slice a wedge of humidity, gusts had set up a good court on my left arm, and, oh yes, footballs filled the air.

Spring games and jamborees whetted the appetites of football-starved fans last weekend. On Friday, Darryl Williams of Hancock returned from a fourth place finish in the state meet in time to lead the Hawks to a 38-26 rout of Lumberton.

At Joe D. McCullough Stadium on Saturday, Bay High ripped St. John and Stanislaus by a combined 40-0 score. Stanislaus, playing short-handed and in only the Rocks' fourth day in pads, also lost to St. John 14-0.

A few team-by-team impressions while anxiously awaiting what should be the most exciting fall in Hancock County since Brett Favre filled the stands.

Hancock — With a healthy Williams, the Hawks are the second best team in Division 7, 4A behind Picayune. Given a little luck and a few breaks, Hancock may finish the season as the division champ.

Williams brings speed and a rarely found dedication to the Hawk program. His feat Friday was nothing short of phenomenal.

He finished fourth in the 100-meter race in Jackson and then returned to Hawk Stadium in time for the second half.

The first time Williams touched the ball he ran 44 yards for a touchdown and awoke a lumbering Hawk offense. He finished with 95 yards on only six carries.

Hancock's bookend defensive ends of Desmond Smith and Mark Dubuisson are impressive. Josh Whitfield takes over for three-year starter Chad Peterson at quarterback with proven game experience. Whitfield filled in ably for Peterson last year when Peterson was injured.

Whitfield is not as nimble as his predecessor but brings a stronger and more accurate arm. The Hawks offense should be more versatile.

Williams has set a personal goal of 1,500 yards, but was just as quick to add the top priority is an end to Hancock's playoff drought. Williams may finish in the 1,800-yard range, and Hancock should be in the post-season party. Williams is a legitimate big-time college prospect.

Bay High — Who were those guys anyway?

New Tiger coach David Baughman has generated an enthusiasm in the Bay High program not seen in the past several years as the players have unfortunately suffered through a pain ride on the coaching carousel.

Baughman is the fourth coach in two years, but has made a long-term commitment to his players. Tiger fans should consider themselves fortunate.

Enthusiasm has been so high at the school that Baughman was forced to borrow equipment from Hancock and Gulfport high schools, because such a large number of players showed up for spring practice. There was not enough of pads to go around.

Baughman inherits from coach Joe Shaw a team loaded with speed. Bay High is far from the biggest team in the district, but there are few quicker.

Stanislaus transfer Tyree Haynes has sat out the required year, and he and battymate B. J. Herrington give the Tigers big play threats in the backfield. Wideout Ron Brown possesses exceptional speed, and Tank Williams is a talent waiting to blossom.

Defensively, end Michael Shaw played like someone with something to prove.

But it all comes down to motivation. Give Baughman early credit for rejuvenating the sagging Tigers. A miracle worker? Probably not.

But at least there is a new

Impressions from spring games

spirit on Blue Mound Road. St. Stanislaus — New Rock coach David Kenson has been warmly welcomed by his players.

Kenson is a no-nonsense coach with an exciting offensive philosophy. If nothing else, the Rocks will be fun to watch.

Stanislaus lined up in a multitude of sets on Friday, including the one-back set.

Kenson's first task is to settle a quarterback derby between newcomers Lawrence Coker and Wes Ehler. Neither was impressive on Friday, but neither has had time to grasp Kenson's philosophy.

Coker is the more impressive with his fundamentals. He is big, sets up nicely in the pocket, and has the stronger arm. But he is not as elusive as Ehler.

At times, both played well, and both showed some poor decision making. But that is what the spring games are for.

Kenson is committed to making a decision on a starter by the time the late August opener arrives.

Some of the Rocks' better players, including Andy Brown, did not dress out because of track commitments. So it is unfair to draw any conclusion on the Stanislaus team that scored only seven points in four quarters, since many of those guys will not be on the field in the fall.

At the very least, the Rocks will be worth the price of a ticket just for sheer excitement.

For all of you football junkies looking for encouragement, the Saints report to camp in under 60 days, and the first playing date for the preps is only three months away.

The New York Knick brass backed up the Brinks truck last summer to spend money on high-priced talent that they were convinced would enable to tame Chicago in the playoffs. As it turns out, they should have spent a few more dollars for a staff psychiatrist to pump a little maturity into the team.

The Knicks had Miami down 3-1, but self-destructed when several players left the bench for a brawl late in Game 5. As a result, five players were suspended, the Knicks disappeared from the radar screen, and Gotham is literally crying foul.

The NBA officials were correct in their suspensions. The rules are clearly defined, and anything less would have been the biggest travesty this side of O.J.

Does it really matter anyway? Media types are hyping the Chicago-Miami series like there may be some suspense to the ending.

Michael Jordan has personally hoisted the Bulls onto his No. 23 shoulders, Dennis Rodman is taking quantum doses of prozac, Scottie Pippen has seemingly left the building, Tony Kukoc is riding the pine, and Phil Jackson is zenning out. In other words, all is normal in Chicago during playoff time.

For entertainment purposes only, bet Chicago in five games against Miami, and no more than five against Utah in the finals. For there is no player in history better than Jordan, and when it's playoff time, his shoulders become that much broader. With his looney supporting cast, he has no choice.

Get Heart Smart

Cardiac Assessment: $10 Special Cash Price

According to the American Heart Association, almost 500,000 Americans die of heart disease each year. Some risks factors are uncontrollable, such as age or a family history of heart disease. However, other contributing factors can be controlled...and it's important to find out just what they are.

NorthShore Regional Medical Center is presenting a Heart Health Risk Information seminar, scheduled for Monday, May 26 from 8 to 9:30 a.m. in the main dining room, 100 Medical Center Drive. Dr. George Thomas, an expert on cardiology, is the featured speaker. He will share valuable information, followed by a question/answer session.

In conjunction with the seminar, NorthShore Regional Medical Center is offering a cardiac risk assessment, which includes a blood glucose, total cholesterol, LDL, HDL and triglyceride profiles as well as resting heart rate, blood pressure, height, weight and frame size. The screening will be held at 7 a.m., right before the seminar begins; participants are asked to fast that morning. Seating is limited, call 646-5014 to reserve your place.

Fishing rods available for check-out at libraries

It's that time of the year when fishermen get the itch to get that rod and reel out and go fishing. The Hancock County Library System is a participant in a library loaner program that provides fishing rods and reels for checkout.

The program is sponsored by the Sportsfishing Promotion Council, the marketing arm of the American Sportfishing Association, in cooperation with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks and the library system. Ron Emond, with rod and reel repair in Hancock County, maintains the combos.

Residents of Hancock County can borrow rods and reels at any branch of the Hancock County Library System with a valid library card and the signing of a release form.

The fishing combos, which have bar codes on them, may be checked out for one week, with overdue charges of $1 per day and a replacement fee for lost items, the same as for borrowing books.

In addition to making the fishing equipment available, another intention of the program is to educate people on places to fish, methods, safety tips and other fishing-related materials.

For information, call the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Public Library, 467-5282; the Kiln Library at 255-1724; or the Waveland Library, 467-9240.

Bay High impressive in jamboree

BY RICHARD MEER

Bay High's debut of coach David Baughman produced impressive wins during a spring football jamboree Saturday at Joe D. McCullough Stadium.

The Tigers combined for a 40-0 shutout in four quarters over St. John and St. Stanislaus. All of the games consisted of two, 12-minute quarters.

In the opener, Bay High ran up a 26-0 score over St. John. St. John rallied with a 14-7 win over Stanislaus. The Rocks then fell 14-0 to Bay High.

"I'm proud of these kids, they played hard," Baughman said. "The win can definitely have a carryover. It's something positive, and something we can build on. It provides motivation to get people in the weight room and gives us enthusiasm."

Bay High dominated Stanislaus, holding the Rocks to 17 total yards, only three on the ground. However, SSC was late getting started in spring practice, and Saturday was only the Rocks' fourth day in pads.

"I'm happy with the kids tonight," said coach David Kenson, also making his coaching debut.

"We were looking to build some confidence and make some good things happen," he said. "We did that. We made big plays on offense and defense."

Tiger running backs Tyree Haynes and B.J. Harrington provided the bulk of the Bay High offense. Haynes gained 35 yards on 11 carries, and Harrington 26 on three attempts, including two touchdowns. Harrington scored on a one-yard run with 9:16 left in the game, and added a 10-yard score with 2:36 remaining.

Harrington's first touchdown capped an 11-play, 50-yard drive set up by Wes Griffith's interception of a Lawrence Coker pass.

Bay High Tank Williams misfired on his only two pass attempts.

"We kept it simple tonight," Baughman said. "We could not have asked for anything more from the kids. They showed a lot of commitment and dedication."

The game provided Kenson his first glance in a quarterback derby featuring Coker and Wes Ehlert. Coker was 0-2 with one interception, and Ehlert 1-0 with an interception.

Kenson said he has not settled on a starting quarterback but said he will by the first game. SSC also unveiled a wide-open scheme that at times featured one-back sets.

The Rocks also played without several starters who were competing in the state track meet.

PRCC cage camp

Registration is underway for the 1997 Pearl River Community College Boys Basketball Camp June 15-19 (Sunday through Thursday) on the PRCC campus, according to Wildcat head coach Richard Mathis.

The camp is designed for players in grades 4-12. Cost is $140 for overnight campers, while day campers pay $100.

Mathis, PRCC assistant coaches Isaac Brown and Chris Carter, high school coaches, and select PRCC players will instruct the campers in all aspects of the sport.

For information, call Mathis at (601) 795-1175.

Area teams compete in jamboree

The Rocks lost 14-7 to St. John and 14-0 to Bay High. Bay High was a double winner, defeating St. John 26-0. The jamboree was the debut for Tiger coach David Baughman and Rock coach David Kenson. ### McPhail

"We greatly appreciate the many calls of concern and support we've received from friends and family around the country. We ask that you continue to keep us in your thoughts and prayers."

The Highway Patrol reports the accident occurred during a rainstorm and that McPhail was alone in the vehicle.

McPhail, so popular in Hancock County, is in the thoughts and prayers of many.

Hancock County Republican Committee chairman Dr. A.K. Martinovich said, "She is a great person and a very good friend as well as political ally. She is a strong vigorous leader and is an understanding and compassionate person."

Longtime Diamondhead resident Tom Preston said, "Lee and I are praying for Evelyn's complete and speedy recovery. We need her enthusiasm, wisdom and knowledge in our growing community. She is unselfish and loving. God bless her!"

"Margie and I just love her — she is one of the sweetest people we know. We are keeping her in our prayers," John Auderer, longtime Republican and personal friend said.

Auderer said he recalls several years ago, when McPhail was the Republican National Committee chair, she was selected as the Diamondhead parade's grand marshal. She was so busy that he purchased her favors for her.

Auderer said, "Evelyn came to our house and sat on the floor and had such a great time, just like a kid going through her throws. You know, Evelyn is the same, no matter where she is or what she is doing."

Waveland Republican Mayor John Mason credits McPhail's direction for his campaign which led to his victory.

"She was the one who helped me plan my campaign, and she stayed on top of it every minute of the way," Mason recalled.

Mason continued, "I was in shock when I heard about her accident. She is one of the finest ladies I have ever met. You know our backgrounds are similar. (Both were raised in orphanages). I hope to God she gets better. I do not believe Evelyn has an enemy in the world. She made friends wherever she went."

McPhail was scheduled to be the guest of honor for the Hancock County Republican Women's Club at their June 3 meeting.

Runoff

287 votes or 60 percent to 190 votes for Johnson.

In the only race in Pass Christian, incumbent Councilman-at-large Gene Rogers survived a strong challenge by Steven Biggs to win the Democratic nomination.

Complete, but unofficial results, show 521 votes cast city-wide, with Rogers capturing 281 votes or 54 percent to 240 votes or 46 percent for Biggs.

"The turnout was great for this to be the only thing on the ballot," an excited Lampley said. "For the runoff I worked extra hard. I went to a lot of people who didn't go out (to vote) the first time and tried to get them out."

Johnson said he enjoyed the election experience and he "knew people were going to make a change." Lampley and Johnson both defeated incumbent Tom Farve to face each other in the runoff.

The official results reflected 477 votes which is just under the total vote count of 490 in the first primary race between four candidates.

The campaigning is not over yet for Lampley who will face Independent Thomas P. "Tom" Clarke in the general election on June 3.

If Lampley is successful, she will be the second woman to take a council seat for the next term, following Carleen Murphy Moran. It would be the first time in council history two women serve simultaneously.

"I can't lay down, I've worked too hard," Lampley said. "I will hopefully get some of the same people back to the polls."

Rogers is seeking a fourth consecutive term, and is expected to face stiff opposition in the June 3 general election from Republican nominee Leo A. "Chipper" McDermott.

Also in June, the race for Ward 4 is expected to be heated between incumbent Republican Yvonne "Vonnice" Bodenschatz and Democratic challenger Arthur Balch.

Bodenschatz, who ran for her first term as a Democrat, beat Balch four years ago by three votes to win the nomination, then defeated Republican Charles Guidroz by 36 votes in the general election. This time, Bodenschatz is running as a Republican.

Dear Patients and Friends:

Headaches are common ailments affecting many individuals every day of their lives. Professional help is seldom sought for headaches, although millions of Americans spend countless dollars on headache remedies, even though usually they get little or no relief from them. And the headache usually keeps occurring.

Chiropractors believe that drugs do not cure and do not prevent headaches. Although they may relieve pain, they certainly do not remove the cause of the pain, and may even bring about undesirable side effects. A headache may be considered as a sign that something is wrong within the body; the pain is a warning signal. But taking something like a painkiller to disguise the pain would be like disconnecting the oil light in your car whenever it flashes.

The body is controlled and regulated through the nervous system and, if a spinal nerve is pinched or blocked, the body will become diseased or malfunction. A headache, for example, could be the result of a situation like this. When one or more of the tiny positions, headache troubles may result.

When you are in pain and in doubt as to its cause, contact your Doctor of Chiropractic. Find out what's causing those headaches and, instead of covering up the pain, try for a cure!

Stephen Ambrose

Ambrose honored

Historian Stephen Ambrose was honored by the University of Wisconsin-Madison May 9 when he received a Distinguished Alumni Award.

The single highest honor bestowed by the Wisconsin Alumni Association, the award acknowledges Ambrose for his contributions to the field of history and to the university.

Ambrose is the author of two New York Times bestsellers — D-Day and Undaunted Courage — and has published biographies of Nixon and Eisenhower. This former Badger linebacker has been a professor and the director of the Eisenhower Center at the University of New Orleans, and the president of the National D-Day Museum. His compilation of 1,400 oral histories from American veterans has established him as one of the foremost historians of the Second World War.

Last fall, Ambrose returned to Madison to teach history at the university. Now he is organizing a campaign to establish a chair in the department of history named for the late UW Professor William Hesselstine, who inspired Ambrose to study history in the first place.

The Wisconsin Alumni Association (WAA) has been serving UW-Madison and its graduates for 136 years. WAA provides an array of services, including On Wisconsin, a bimonthly alumni magazine; a national council to foster multicultural diversity; a career database program; and an extensive student relations program.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1997-9A

Loan consolidating not always best option

Q. I have a lot of credit cards and some other bills that I would like to consolidate. I keep paying on the credit cards and never make any progress. I am not behind on anything but one payment would make things easier. Where can I get a consolidation loan and is this a good idea?

A. Proceed cautiously. The most common problem with consolidation loans is that they lull the debtor into a sense of relief from the burden of debt. This sense of relief encourages old spending habits to continue. It may take two or three consolidation loans before the consumer realizes that the real problem is not solved and that these temporary "bandaids" have allowed the problem to balloon out of control.

This is not to say that bill simplification won't help — it may. However, expect more than simplification, shop around for favorable loan terms and keep the following in mind: The new loan should reduce the overall interest rate on your debt and the total finance charges.

It should be paid in the same time frame or less than the original credit payments were scheduled to be paid. If the length of the loan increases, you increase your total financing costs. You also impend your future spending ability, perhaps causing conflicts with other financial goals like buying a new car, sending the kids to college, etc.

Consider which bills to consolidate. Low-interest rate loans or other bills with minimal carrying charges may not be good candidates for a consolidation. For instance, a medical or legal bill on which the provider agreed to accept payment at no interest should not be consolidated.

Check the banks or credit unions where you have a customer history. These creditors will try the hardest to work with you.

CONSUMER UPDATE

By Jan Lukens, MBA, CFP
Consumer Money Management Specialist

Have you been offered a low-interest credit card? Use a low-interest rate card to pay off higher rate cards, then, close the old account.

Be leery of consolidation loan offers received in the mail. Loan company rates can greatly exceed the average credit card rate of 18 percent.

Is a home equity line-of-credit or a mortgage refinance an option? Don't consider using your home for collateral unless your income and total financial situation is very stable.

Do you have an employer savings plan or retirement plan with a loan provision? If so, review the terms and conditions carefully.

Do you have life insurance with sufficient cash value buildup for borrowing?

Q. Is it a good idea to borrow against my life insurance policy? Isn't this just paying to borrow your own money?

A. Yes, in a sense, to both questions. Your insurance company is likely to charge half the rate of the average credit card. Rates are low since your savings serve as collateral.

You can withdraw the cash value to pay off debt, but there are disadvantages to doing so. If you withdraw the cash value, you surrender the policy. You may also owe income tax if the accumulated cash value exceeds premiums paid. Borrowing against the cash value keeps insurance in force while using savings to lower credit costs.

The most significant drawback to borrowing against a life insurance policy is the drag you place on the earnings within the policy. Cash value life insurance, like most long-term investments utilizes compounding of earnings over time to produce the desired investment results. If you tie up a portion of those earnings with loans and the interest accumulated by the loans over time you will inhibit the growth of the cash value.

You can typically borrow up to 95 percent of the cash value. The death benefit is reduced by the amount of the outstanding loan. Ask your agent for the total cost of the loan and how dividends, cash value and future premiums are affected over the long-term.

Local builder included in home builder network

Bay St. Louis home builder Julie Rosson of Julie Rosson Builder Inc., has been selected for membership in the Southern Living Custom Home Builder Network. Rosson is one of 100 builders chosen for the fourth annual builder network program.

Each year, Southern Living selects members based on their reputation among local business and consumers, their presence in their respective markets; superior quality and attention to detail; innovative style; and other criteria.

Rosson received the 1996 Best in Mississippi Single Family New Construction Award from the Home Builders Association of Mississippi. She also received the association's overall Merit Award in 1995. Rosson, formerly of Madison, is currently developing Acadian Bay subdivision in Waveland, which features 26 homesites in the area's first protective covenants development.

Builders selected to the Southern Living Custom Home Builder Network have exclusive rights to a special collection of 24 Southern Living House Plans designed for the magazine by Atlanta residential designer Stephen S. Fuller, president of Design Traditions.

Each builder will build at least one plan from the collection or other Southern Living plans in 1997. Network builders also have access to the entire Southern Living House plans Service collection, which includes more than 300 plans created by respected architects and designers.

"The builder network is a natural extension of our overall homes program, which aims at offering quality designs and new ideas to consumers across the Southeast," said Southern Living Homes Group Director Bill McDougald. "We believe we have chosen some of the most outstanding builders in their region to help us do this."

All houses constructed by members of the network are speculative homes and will be placed on the market by their respective builders. Before selling the homes, however, each builder has the option of opening them to the general public for tours.

Southern Living is published by the Southern Progress Corp., which also publishes Progressive Farmer, Cooking Light, Southern Accent, Weight Watchers and Coastal Living magazines, as well as Oxmoor House books. The Birmingham-based subsidiary of Time, Inc. is a leading source of lifestyle information.

Rain

On Wednesday, Hancock County Civil Defense Director had some bad news for flooded merchants and property owners hoping to receive some federal help.

Boudin had asked those that took on water or other damage to report to his office, so he could ask state Civil Defense funds if the area might qualify for low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration. But the request was denied.

As of Wednesday, 60 homes and 12 businesses had reported mostly water damage. Boudin said the county rain gauge showed Bay St. Louis had 12 inches of rainfall between noon and 7:15 p.m. Monday.

"The kicker is that the properties must have sustained at least 40 percent damage," said Boudin. "And, none of them had that much damage."

"It's unfortunate for these homeowners and businesses that can't get help, but in another way, we were fortunate," said Boudin. "No lives were lost, and there was no one left homeless."

Bay Assistant Police Chief David Stepro said a tow-truck operator did have a close call, however.

It happened in rising water in front of the Peoples Bank near the Colonial Plaza Shopping Center.

"The guy was unhooking the tow cable when a bolt of lightning either struck it or closeby, and he went down," said Stepro. He said "two of us pulled the guy out of the water, which then was about 12 to 18 inches deep, and laid him on the median."

The policemen contacted mobile medic and fire rescue personnel nearby, but they were tied up in traffic.

"Fortunately, he never lost consciousness, and there were some paramedics closeby," said Stepro. "They checked him out, and he did not need to be transferred to the hospital."

Stepro said the experience "was scary for us all."

Wrecking firms throughout the area had more business then they could handle.

Dee Watkins, dispatcher for Bulldog Towing, said four trucks were pressed into service and estimated as many as 25 stalled vehicles were towed out of the rising waters.

Danny Page, tow-truck driver with Mike Pernicaro Wrecker Service, said three tow trucks worked the area, towing at least 17 disabled vehicles.

All Bay St. Louis policemen were called in for the emergency, and the city used dump trucks to get personnel to some flooding scenes.

Janet Aime, administrator for the city's Public Works Department, said, "We used every barricade we've got to block flooded streets." After that, workers began using city trucks to block off some streets, she said.

In Waveland, Utilities Director Steve Landry said estimates are the city received more than five inches of rain, and some streets were temporarily flooded, but drained swiftly.

Tuesday and Wednesday, residents and businesses were cleaning up and drying out, but merchants who had experienced flooding before took the storm in stride.

Dick Redditt, who owns a pest control and pool and spa business on Hwy. 90, said his operations experienced flood twice before in the last six years.

"This time, we had 18 inches of water inside," said Redditt. He said he and his staff were busy drying out the indoor/outdoor carpet Tuesday, but he sustained minor damages to the premises or to his products.

"Most of our products are in boxes. We lost the boxes, but the products are in sealed containers," he said. Both locations were open for business Tuesday.

day, Redditt said.

Karen Renz, who owns Hug Of Heaven gift shop in the same shopping strip where Redditt is located, was closed Tuesday but reopened Wednesday.

Renz said, "We had 10 inches of water inside," and she was using a wet vac to dry out the carpet.

She said she lost some products because of the water on the floor, and "jewelry and other things on the first shelf of showcases."

Colonial Plaza off Hwy. 90 between DeMontluzin and Carroll was among shopping centers under water. Police were in waist-deep water directing traffic to stay clear of the parking lot.

A tanning salon, a hair salon, and an attorney's office in the rear of the shopping center took on water, along with the tourism bureau, and Rep. Gene Taylor's offices.

The Chamber of Commerce building, the nearby People's Bank and other shops facing Hwy. 90 were threatened by the rising water, but officials reported minor damage.

Jeannie Deen, manager of Peoples Bank, estimated about three inches of water came inside, and the bank was closed at the height of the storm, but reopened Tuesday.

Further down Hwy. 90, the switchboard went out at Hancock Medical Center at the height of the storm Monday and was out all day Tuesday. Service was restored Wednesday.

Power outages were reported throughout the area, with the worst occurring around 3 p.m., and knocking out power to about 1,600 electric customers north of the bay near Casino Magic.

The casino ordered all employees to stay on the premises until the storm subsided.

health and fire department officials and representatives of American Medical Response to map out plans, and said, "Time was of the essence."

He noted that recent weather forecasts predicted there is a 70 percent probability that a major storm might strike this year along the Mississippi or Louisiana coasts.

Boudin said it is important that civil defense and rescue personnel know the whereabouts and special needs of people before an evacuation is ordered.

He also had a staunch warning for the residents of Pearlington.

"Those people think they're living on a hill because they didn't get water during Camille," said Boudin.

He said that was because the storm approached from the east, causing a north wind that took the water out.

"If a Category 3 storm comes in over Slidell, approaching from the west, estimates are most of Pearlington would be under 18 feet of water," said Boudin.

During the session, the various representatives refined evacuation policies first adopted in a workshop session hosted by AMR in August of 1995. The Gulf Regional Planning Commission, and a number of home health, hospital and public safety agencies representing Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties participated in adopting evacuation and rescue procedures.

Chris Vickery, AMR's operations manager, said, except in life-threatening circumstances and with a doctor's consent, area hospitals won't accept bed-confined persons or patients dependent on electricity who are on a ventilator, or other biomedical equipment that would otherwise be ineffective without electricity.

"The best place to put these people is in the home of a family member or friend," said Vickery. "Ninety-nine-point-nine percent of the time, the hospitals will not board them," he said.

In times of emergency, the policy that is now in place calls for persons caring for bedridden or special needs persons to first call the local civil defense office at 467-9226.

Explain the circumstances to personnel, along with the patient's address, and civil defense personnel will determine whether that person must be transported by ambulance.

Boudin has designated the Methodist Day Care Center at Second and Court Street as the site to take these patients, and he said an emergency (electrical) generator will be on site in the event of a power outage.

He said he is a bit concerned that the facility will not be large enough, and he plans to ask Hotel Reed if they might board some patients.

Patients in wheelchairs, the crippled, and those who are visually or deaf-impaired can be transported safely to an alternative residence of the shelter by specially-equipped Coast transit or AMR vans. Some may be able to be transported by regular vehicles, with assistance, Boudin said.

Boudin has designated Richard Warman as his "count man" in Hancock County. Once the special needs persons have been identified, Boudin said Warman will pinpoint each person's address on a county map, so emergency personnel can quickly get to them.

Navy enters partnership with local charity

Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Jay Johnson recently signed a partnership agreement linking the Navy with a Mississippi charity, Navy CARES! (Community Action for a Responsible and Educated Society).

Navy CARES! is a non-profit corporation composed of citizens with ties to the Navy. The group will collaborate with Navy commands in projects designed to help America's youth, preschool through grade 12, to become productive members of the workforce and contributing members to society. Projects are expected to be conducted under the auspices of the Navy's Personal Excellence Partnership (PEP) program.

Typical activities supported by Navy CARES! include tutoring, classroom lectures and de-

"Our window of opportunity depends on how erratic a storm might be," said Boudin. "Most of the time, we will have plenty of time to evacuate, but we might have to evacuate more than once."

He recalled Hurricane Gilbert "that filled up the entire Gulf Coast."

"Everybody that was evacuated was returning to their homes, when it took a turn and started moving 25 miles an hour," said Boudin.

Boudin also asked home health officials to recruit volunteer nurses, who are willing to man the special needs shelters.

He learned that some home health agencies have hiring policies in place requiring nurses to work in emergency situations, and providing them regular pay while they are working. The agencies promised to furnish Boudin with a list of volunteer nurses.

Besides home health officials, others attending Monday's meeting included county Fire Marshal Richard Pate and several representatives of the Waveland Fire Department and one from the Diamondhead Fire Department, and a nurse with the state Health Department.

monstrations, mentoring, career awareness and vocational training; special events and gatherings; incentives and awards; site improvement; and staff development.

As a non-profit 501(c)(3) group, Navy CARES! may raise funds for these projects through corporate donations and grants and participation in the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC), the federal government's annual charity drive.

Navy commands may provide volunteers, tutors, mentors and speakers for these projects, but are not involved in the fund-raising efforts. However, sailors and other command members who participate in CFC may designate that their individual contributions be allocated to Navy CARES!

OLA valedictorian and salutatorian

Sister M. Donella Hartman, principal of Our Lady Academy, announced Erin Favre and Emily Pela as the valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the Class of 1997.

Graduation exercises for the 35 OLA seniors will be Saturday, May 31 at 3 p.m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Valedictorian

Erin Favre, daughter of Neil and Beth Favre of Bay St. Louis, is an all-A Honor Roll student, secretary of the National Honor Society and a member of the OLA Crescents Athletic Club, the OLA soccer team, the Math/Science Team, and Students Against Driving Drunk. She was a member of the National French Honor Society for three years and secretary in her junior year.

Graduation also marks milestone for parents

Many times at graduation, parents' tears are not from happiness that the child finally made it, but sadness that a chapter of life has closed.

High school graduation marks the transition from a child to an independent adult. Many graduates move away to college the following fall, and those who don't choose college often get a job and move out of the house soon afterwards.

Dr. Louise Davis, Mississippi State University extension child and family development specialist, said graduation is a bittersweet time for parents. It symbolizes the cutting of some ties between parent and child.

"Some parents can become emotionally dependent on their children," Davis said. "They become involved with their extracurricular activities, school and group of friends, then much of that ends when the child graduates."

But graduation doesn't have to be a tough time. Davis said the secret is to prepare through the years for when the child will become an independent adult.

Preparing the child involves slowly changing the parenting style to teach them to make good decisions, to accept responsibility and to get along with others.

"In the later teenage years, parents begin to communicate with the child on a more adult level," she said.

Sometimes graduation time is difficult because the young person is unprepared for life after high school. This, too, can be avoided with advance preparation.

"During the high school years, students should seek the help of guidance counselors to explore career and college options," Davis said.

Dealing with a child's graduation is often hard even for parents who seem the strongest. Parents feel a sense of loss when their child moves on in life and they need to know how to handle it. Stress management can help at the time, but advance preparation works best, Davis said.

"Be sure you have your own identity, activities and interests so you can continue to have important adult relationships," she said.

With a child gone, parents will have more free time, and Davis suggested they fill it with relationships, new activities and hobbies.

"Before a child leaves home, parents should get into the routine of being without them," Davis said. "There will still have to be some rules or boundaries if the young person continues to remain at home, but they should be treated as an adult living under your roof rather than a child."

If there are younger siblings, parents may have difficulty explaining why the older child no longer has to follow certain rules. This can create a barrier, but can be worked through.

Favre graduates

Conor Brett Favre will graduate from Corona Del Sol High School in Tempe, Ariz. May 22. Favre is the son of Don and Dawn Favre of Chandler, Ariz. and the grandson of Lydia Monti Favre of Bay St. Louis. He will attend Arizona State University and plans to major in construction engineering or business.

USM Gulf Coast commencement

Nearly 150 degree candidates will participate in the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast's first graduation exercise in recent history May 17.

Dr. Horace Fleming, who became the university's seventh president in January, will deliver the commencement address at 10:30 a.m. on the beachfront grounds of the Gulf Park campus and award diplomas to 148 degree candidates—including 111 seeking bachelor's degrees and 37 graduate students.

USM, which is celebrating its 25th year of operations on the Coast this year, held one previous commencement to conclude its first year there in the spring of 1973. There has not been a USM graduation ceremony on the Coast since.

"The Gulf Coast is very important to the university," said Fleming. "We have been a part of that community for 25 years and we want to continue to be. It is that community that has made it possible for us to have our campus and our programs there."
